In this example, tetracycline from the NDF Generic Drug Name file is selected. Notice that other files contain possible selections. Other than for food reactants, it is a good idea to avoid selections from the Drug Ingredients File. Users should also avoid making selections from National Drug File – Trade Name. Several entries in this file include all inactive ingredients used in the manufacturing of the product. Thus, selecting items from this file could result in triggering useless and confusing order checks.

You select a term by left clicking on it. When the term has been selected, click on 'OK'.

Causative Agent Not On File - No Matches for ASPURIN

The agent you typed was not found in the database. Consider the common causes of search failure:

- Misspellings
- Typing more than one agent in a single entry
- Typing "No known allergies"

Select "NO" to attempt the search again. Carefully check your spelling, try an alternate spelling, a trade name, a generic name or just entering the first few characters (minimum of 3). Enter only one allergy at a time. Use the "No Known Allergies" check box to mark a patient as NKA.

Select "YES" to send a bulletin to the allergy coordinator to request assistance. Only do this if you've tried alternate methods of finding the causative agent and have been unsuccessful.

Select "CANCEL" to abort this entry process.

Because the signs/symptoms field is not required for "Historical" reactions, it is very helpful to select a symptom or note the adverse outcome in the Comments Field (see slides 9 and 10) so other providers will have that information.

When a reactant record is entered, it will also be indicated in the 'Postings' box
